

MS 2100

[Historical material, chiefly photos, re C F Palmer (London) Ltd, physiological instrument makers]

All photographs are b & w unless otherwise stated

- |      |             |                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| /1   | c.1912      | [Page from scientific instrument catalogue of] C F Palmer, 6 Upper Tulse Hill, London [advertising] Dr Brodie's Kymograph for smoked paper, [bearing ms. note in Palmer's hand] |
| /2   |             | [Photographs: people]                                                                                                                                                           |
| /2/1 | 1931 Dec 15 | [Portrait photo of] C F Palmer [by] H J Whitlock & Sons Ltd, Bruton St, London                                                                                                  |
| /2/2 | 1943        | [Group photo of staff of Palmers company. With enlargement of part of same]                                                                                              |
| /2/3 | -           | [Portrait photo of Basil Palmer]                                                                                                                                                |
| /3   | -           | [Photographs: instruments/equipment]                                                                                                                                            |
| /3/1 |             | Levy-Wyman ergometer                                                                                                                                                            |
| /3/2 |             | Brown-Schuster myographic                                                                                                                                                       |
| /3/3 |             | Photo-transistor drop recording assembly                                                                                                                                        |
| /3/4 |             | Condon's rat B.P. manometer                                                                                                                                                     |
| /3/5 |             | "Complete" isolated organ bath                                                                                                                                                  |
| /3/6 |             | C.E.P.T.U. (comprehensive electro-physiological teaching unit)                                                                                                                  |
| /3/7 |             | "Ideal" pump ass[embl]y                                                                                                                                                         |
| /3/8 |             | The Organ bath, made by the C F Palmer division of Baird & Tatlock. It will be shown at the Kuwait exhibition in March 1971                                                     |
| /3/9 |             | The C F Palmer student spirometer                                                                                                                                               |

- /3/10 C F Palmer Kymograph stimulator
- /3/11 [Photos (6) of unnamed equipment]
- /3/12 [Photo of diagram of workings of ..?]
- /4 - [Photographs: exhibitions]
- /4/1-7 [Photos (7, 3 in colour) of exhibition of C F Palmer company history and equipment]
- /5 - [Illustrations (4) of equipment]
- /6 [Miscellaneous]
- /6/1 - [Negatives (2), one portrait, one group]
- /6/2 1977 [Microfiches (6), obtained in 1977 from Companies Registration Office, re formation of C F Palmer (London) Ltd in 1924, details of original directors, memorandum & articles of association, company mortgages, later directors and shareholdings, and winding up in 1976]
- /6/3 [Papers re Dr Sykes's researches into the Palmer company: photocopies of photos of Palmer's workshop staff, 1941, and wartime damage to the Brixton factory, of director's report and statement of accounts to 31 Mar 1962, and of booklet 'Dr Porter and The Harvard Apparatus Company' 1962 by Mary L Stocker; and correspondence of Sykes 1988-94]
- /7 1995 [Offprint:] 'A short history of C F Palmer (London) Ltd, physiological instrument makers' [by] A H Sykes [from] Journal of Medical Biography 3, pp.225-231

Inv.no. 2001-29

N.B. A number of trade catalogues of the Palmer company were presented together with the above material. They are housed in the Library's Trade Literature Collection