

FOLK SONGS AND MUSIC

Collected by Francis Collinson
Vaughan Williams Memorial Library, EFDSS

INTRODUCTION

The material comprises 6 numbered folders of notation relating to traditional songs with some music. Most of the individual items are apparently primary source material which appear to have been collected by Francis Collinson himself or supplied by listeners to "Country Magazine". Other entries are transcriptions and copies of previously published material (apparently for purposes of comparison) or notes in these folders for arrangements of songs by Collinson. The outline contents of the folders are:-

English songs I All songs from various singers in England. All items numbered.

English songs II, III, IV Mainly songs, some correspondence associated with songs. All items numbered.

English Songs V Songs and correspondence (some correspondence on publications and similar issues). The items in this folder were not numbered and numbers have been assigned during indexing.

English Songs VI Songs and letters, other correspondence. MS of arrangements for "Country Magazine". The items in this folder were not numbered and numbers have been assigned during indexing.

The following detailed catalogue refers to the primary material only as the secondary material is presumed to be available elsewhere.

Conventions used in this list

- Entries are listed in order of folder and page-number
- The title is rendered as closely as possible in spelling, punctuation and capitalization to that given
- The contents of each entry are summarised as follows:
 - # v number of verses ("text" where this is unclear)
 - + tune, tune given
 - ch chorus
- short notes of other points are included where they may be useful
- Personal names are those of singers and/or informants (it is not always clear which role specific individuals are taking)
- Town and county are included where given (more details are present in some entries)
- The year is included where given or labelled "undated" otherwise. Month and day is also given for some items.
