[Sir] W[illiam] B[lake] Richmond,
Beaver Lodge, Hammersmith

Encloses DD/375/26/2. The list of signatures includes many well-known electors of Hammersmith, but no general canvass has been attempted- quality rather than quantity. Feels that the Reform Bill which has been introduced since the last reading of the [Franchise and Registration] Bill, with its proposal for an increased male electorate, makes the exclusion of women even more 'conspicuously unjust and inexpedient'. Hopes the petition will strengthen WJB's hands in the cause which he has long supported

Florence Sayers, 1 St. Peter's Sq., W.
Would appreciate any mention of her father [Reuben T.W. Sayers] in WJB's book. He moved to 1 St. Peter's Sq. in 1849 and became a churchwarden at St. Peter's for a time. He painted an altarpiece for St. Peter's which is now in the church at Hever [co. Kent]. Encloses a description of the painting from a sermon given by the vicar of Hever when the painting was installed there [between 1902 and 1905]. Also encloses a list of models who sat for her father, though these were normally used only for figures in 'subject pictures'. (Neither of the enclosures has been found). Francis J[ohn] Atwood, Holyrood, Parkewood Rd., Bournemouth, E.

Would be pleased if the branch of the Atwood family referred to in John Robinson, The Atwood Family with Historic Notes and Pedigrees (Sunderland, 1903) were connected with his own branch, which claims a saxon origin. Encloses [presumably] DD/375/37/2, a tracing from a rough copy of a water colour of his grandfather's house in Hammersmith, which now belongs to his cousin Mrs. Arnold Toynbee, 16 Norham Gdns., Oxford, the daughter of his father's brother William Duncombe Atwood who was born in the house. The house was pulled down when the first suspension bridge was built. Mr. Martin at the Library was unable to find any mention of the house or its demolition. Would be pleased if some street or property in Hammersmith were to be named after the Atwoods. Possibly land on the west side of Beavor Lane which he used to own would be suitable for this.

Arthur Hacker, 178 Grosvenor Rd., S.W.5

Thinks the 'men in Authority at the Tate' with their liking for modern work, may consider Mr. Hayes' pictures to be too much of the old school. However has advised Mr. Hayes to submit 3 or 4 of the smaller pictures and prefers the studies direct from nature. Enjoyed the visit to Chiswick house where Dr. Luke showed him round. Regarding the historical picture for the Houses of Parliament, would prefer to execute a portrait group of 'The War Cabinet' which would be invaluable for the future. Does WJB know of anyone interested in presenting such a picture - it would be better to record the real men of the present rather than figures of the past

Encloses the 'old seals and parchments' and various books which he acquired from an old lady in Caithness Rd. She was a daughter of a Mr. Palmer who lived over the 'old Rolls Chapel' and was occupied in 'entering particulars of applications for "patents"' (further details given). Is now attending a Mr. Hone whose job used to be searching the old rolls at the Public Record Office for genealogists, historical enquirers, etc. Through this he came into contact with Cardinal Gasquet (author of treatise on monastic buildings of England). Hone said that he had been assisted by Palmer's 'indexes or calendars', of which there were hundreds. Palmer had access to records at the Rolls Chapel, the Tower, and Westminster. He may have forgotten to return some and it is these which have come into WJB's hands. Palmer was in the Inns of Court Volunteers

Thanks WJB for his letter of introduction which she has sent to her brother in Wimbledon. Her father and mother were not missionaries. Her father was consul for Jerusalem and Palestine from 1846 to 1863, during which time he 'saved Syria from massacre more than once'. He was given a special extra pension for distinguished service on retirement. Trustees who were left to administer their properties proved to be fraudulent and litigation in the Turkish courts has only recently restored one of the properties to the family. The other is claimed by the government- a great injustice. Her eldest brother who died in 1914 did distinguished consular service in Persia, Spain, America and Chile

Will send WJB her mother's typed MS, but it may not be of general interest. 'A smaller manuscript of her writing is the one the publishers want me to pay £70 for and is called A Month on the Mount of Olives'. Will send this to WJB also. Her brother and she are very indignant about about the references to her father [Alexander Finn] and mother by Sir Edmund Hornby. Has written to the editor about it. The statements are 'absurdly false' in every respect. Her mother's plans for helping poor Jews were carried out through public subscription and not by borrowing. Would like to see WJB to explain the details. It is 'too ludicrous' to suggest that her father was a 'weak official' Superscribed by WJB: 're Sir Edward Hornby's Autobiography published in 1929'

Typescript copy letter (11 Apr. 1827)

George Scott, Ravenscourt

Unnamed correspondent

Is obliged for the note 'but as I did not send out the other invitations till I had heard from you, having a presentiment about the Club, I will by no means obtrude on your kindness by interfering with it; and I found shortly afterwards from Mr. Flood's letter that I was to have the pleasure of meeting you on the 25th.

'My brother does not come here till the 24th, otherwise he would have been most happy in accompanying us on the previous Saturday, and as he may stay some days in Town, I hope we shall all meet here, before he returns to Rotherfield.

'Thanks to my piety! the new Church is begun at last, but the parsons will have it named after that papistical Saint, Peter, because....they....tell me they think George is an heathenist Saint. However, Piety is its own reward, and I have lett between 4 & 500 p Ann. on building leases, and am Petering away in Squares, Crescents and Terraces and I hope to finish with St. George and the Dragon, and we shall see which Saint gts the most custom.'

Does not think a photograph of the Brenton coat-of-arms would show very much, but will try and have one taken and will send it.

The items listed below are stamped 'With the compliments of Sir William Bull' but have been firmly 'entrenched' in the Hammersmith Local Collection for some time and are in regular use as parts of series, the remainder of which have been accumulated from other sources. It is not now practicable or advisable to relocate these items and store them with the material which appears earlier in this list, and DD/375 numbers have not been assigned to them. They are listed below in the interests of completeness. The registers of electors are classified at H324.24 HAM. All apart from the first undated one are printed and most if not all those for the years 1894 - 1919 were used by WJB during political campaigns and contain varying degrees of MS notation. Where the initials 'HCCA' appear below the registers referred to are inscribed on the front endpaper as belonging to the Hammersmith Conservative and Constitutional Association, and often contain a considerable amount of detailed annotation and amendment concerned with elections. All the newspapers are bound together with various other papers from other sources, and are classified at H070 HAM.
