DONCASTER ARCHIVES

DONCASTER SOCIALIST (INTERNATIONAL), 1967-1987

Administrative History

Doncaster Socialist Union was established on 31 March 1974 at the Ingram Arms in Hatfield after a split from the Revolutionary Workers Party (Trotskyists), British Section of the IVth International (Posadist), the Doncaster Regional Committee and the Miners Faction. The opening speech can be found at DS14/1/1 given by David Douglass and a committee was formed with Ken Terry as chairman and David and Maureen Douglass as secretary and vice chair respectively. By November 1974 it was agreed to change the name of the organisation to Socialist Union (International).

The organisation thought it was necessary to elevate class consciousness amongst the working class, make political preparations for socialism, offer real class leadership and co-ordinate struggles within the mines, factories, communities and the Labour Party. Its spheres of work included the Labour Party of Young Socialists, Marxist Class, Claimants Union, industrial, clandestine and tenant groups. The whole organisation was structured on a democratic basis on a united Marxist programme and they began writing their manifesto in 1974 which outlines their main role (see ref. DS14/8/1-3). Throughout the seven years they were active from 1974 to 1981 other bodies affiliated with the SU(I) including Egypt, Boston and New York and cells were established in Glasgow and Oxford.

The organisation was wound up on 10 November 1981 as recruitment and membership had dwindled. The Doncaster branch of the International Committee for a United Labour Front Defence was also wound up in the following May as its founding members had originally been the SU(I), the Revolutionary Communist League Internationalist (wound up in April 1982) and the Communist Cadre Marxist of USA.

Proletaria Book Shop

The organisation was also responsible for running a book shop called Proletaria in Dunscroft. Its purpose was to dispense socialist books and pamphlets to the working class population and to provide rooms for meetings of various progressive organisations such as the Red Star Club, Left Labour Group and the Claimants Union. It also sold the SU(I)'s locally produced bulletin, 'We have Nothing to Lose but our Chains' (see ref. DS14/9/1). Owing to financial pressures it closed in October 1974.

Red Start Folk Club

The SU(I) were also involved with the Red Star Folk Club which was located at the Eagle Press Hotel (now the Tut 'n' Shive) on West Laithe Gate and these records can be found in section seven.

Archival History	This fonds was initially created by the Socialist Union (International), formerly the Doncaster Socialist Union. The records were then held in the custody of Mr D Douglass of Duncroft before some of the records were deposited with Cusworth Hall Museum. These were transferred to Doncaster Archives in 1976 and further deposits were received from the Secretary. (Accession Nos. 213, 214, 243, 245, 258, 279, 282, 292, 297, 324, 344, 371, 624, 748, 772, 1216)
Scope and Content	This fonds consists of 8 minute books, several different types of account books (including those from the book shop and the Red Star Folk Club), correspondence and subject files, diaries, banners, publications and radical newspapers and newsletters. No earlier correspondence files were received before No. 9
Accruals	It is unknown whether any more deposits are expected.
Appraisal, Destruction and Scheduling Information	All records in this fonds are appraised as records for permanent retention.

System of Arrangement	The original order of the fonds has been maintained, although some records were removed which related to the Revolutionary Workers Party, the National Union of Mineworkers and the personal life of David Douglass. These records can now be found at DS75, DS74 and DD/DOUGLASS. The fonds has been arranged into ten series which reflect the different activities of the creator.
Legal Status	Privately deposited records on indefinite loan to Doncaster Archives.
Access Conditions	Restricted Access. Restricted to members and representatives of the union, unless prior permission to consult them has been gained from the depositor, through Doncaster Archives.
Conditions Governing Reproduction	Photocopies can be supplied by a member of staff once a declaration form has been signed by the researcher and written permission has been sought from a union representative.
Language or Script of Materials	Mainly English with several newspapers and newsletters in French, German, Spanish, Arabic, Russian and Chinese.
