The papers demonstrate the business and social activities and concerns, of three generations of a leading family in the Pwllheli area.

The records provide much information on the community of Pwllheli, and the operations of a business in a Welsh town during the nineteenth century. The Timber Yard was started c.1837 by William Jones, an entrepreneur of considerable abilities, and later managed by his son, Griffith and grandson John G. Jones, J.P. A high proportion of the papers issue from Griffith and John G. Jones. For more information on William Jones in the social context of Pwllheli, consult:
