Papers of William Thomas and Sons, shipbuilders, ship repairs, and shipowners and managers, Amlwch Port and the family. Captain William Thomas (1822-1893) was the son of Lewis Thomas, Cae Pant. By 1858 he was involved in shipbuilding and by the mid 1860s was managing more than a dozen vessels. By 1870 he was living at Ponc Taldrwst and the owner of a warehouse and yards at Amlwch Port. By 1872 he had bought the Treweek yard and dry dock and had a ship chandlery business and close connections with Duddon/Millom in Cumbria and William Thomas of Liverpool (born Llanrhuddlad). In the 1880s the firm base established by Captain Thomas was expanded and developed by his sons William (who had trained as a naval designer) and Lewis. The collection also includes family papers including documents about Bryn Eilian and other family business interests. Some documents cover both the shipping business and the household.

[The majority of the documents are badly damaged by previous damp storage].

[For further details see 'Ship and Seamen of Anglesey, 1558-1918' by Aled Eames, p.p. 271-318 and 'A Curious Place, the Industrial History of Amlwch (1550-1950)' by Bryan D.Hope, p.p. 114-149].

Some other records of the Company are with WM 427 'Shipping Papers' which are a mixed collection of shipping records from various sources including Miss Thomas.

He had had a long chat with Frances and Co. and he was to let them know his decision in a week or so: Both partners talked matters over favourably to his side, as he understood they had good connections and they could give him plenty to do and offer 30s. per week and 25% commission. Since then he had seen their late chartering clerk who had not given a good account of them. He had since seen his cousin John D.Thomas who confirmed what the clerk had said but had intended to try Messrs.Frances and Co. again rather than be out altogether. Every Captain he met wanted him to start by himself and if all who he had seen kept their promise he was convinced it would be a good success. He had found a suitable office. he asks for his uncle and cousin's views and asks what they think of the name John Edwards and Co.
